Balmoral

An historical, pastoral and recreational centre with a welcoming country community waiting to show you the many local delights.

STEEPED IN HISTORY

Balmoral is an historic pastoral township nestled amongst rolling hills on the Glenelg River.

The Jardwadjali people were the original custodians of the land and the local Aborigines knew the area as 'Darrangurt'. Covering an area of three square kilometers, they constructed large-scale artificial drainage in the marshy ground for eel and fish trapping.

The first Europeans in the area were the party of Thomas Mitchell who passed nearby on their Australia Felix expedition of 1836, and early European settlement followed.

The township began to emerge around the Glenelg River crossing, a strategic landmark for those travelling between Melbourne and Adelaide. An inn was built, along with a fellmongery, store and woolshed.

A police camp was established in the 1850s to intercept Chinese immigrants who landed at South Australia and walked to the Victorian goldfields to avoid paying a poll tax which was imposed if they disembarked at Victorian ports.

From 1840 the large station properties Fulham, Englefield, Glendinning, Gringegalgon, Kongbool, Rocklands, Yat Nat and Mt Talbot were established. These properties still exist today. The township of Balmoral soon evolved and became an important service centre for the stations.

DIVERSE LAND USE

Agriculture is the main industry for the district with products including fine merino wool, lamb, beef, hay, cereal and oil seed crops.

The Glenelg River Herb Farm is the southern hemisphere's largest producer of premium quality rosemary and culinary herbs.

Horse breeding, adjustment and specialists in local and international equine race preparation are also found in this undulating redgum country.

State forests, the Grampians and the Black Range surround Balmoral and tourism plays a major role in the region. The Black Range State Park boasts masses of wildflowers and orchids in season, excellent bush walking, Aboriginal rock art, dramatic bluffs and breathtaking views.

Rocklands Reservoir, situated 13kms east of Balmoral, has many picturesque spots and tracks around the foreshore making it an ideal camping, fishing and recreational water sport destination.

STAY AND PLAY

Balmoral boasts top class facilities for visitors to stay and enjoy the bushland and fauna that abound. It has many sporting facilities that cater well for golf, bowls, football, netball, tennis and cricket enthusiasts.

The Old Courthouse and Gaol, the Post Office and churches evoke the history of early settlement, while the large-scale Martinich-Carran mural makes a vibrant and contemporary art statement in the village centre, dramatically contrasting with the town's historic charm.

Balmoral is proud of its facilities and services. The Bush Nursing Centre has been caring for the community continuously since 1925, with an excellent range of services. The Balmoral Community College delivers quality education to students from Kindergarten to Year 12.

Visitors will enjoy the tranquillity of the town's Glenelg River Wetlands and River Walk - a stunning oasis of thriving bird life including spoonbills, black swans, herons, ducks and swamp hens. Swathes of colourful waterlilies and the sound of water flowing over the old ford will soothe the soul, and you may be rewarded with a platypus sighting.

Balmoral comes alive during the year with the famous Balmoral Agricultural Show in March, the Easter Saturday street market, Show'n'Shine vintage car meet each November, Chameleon Arts music nights and pop-up arts events along with community-led events throughout the year.

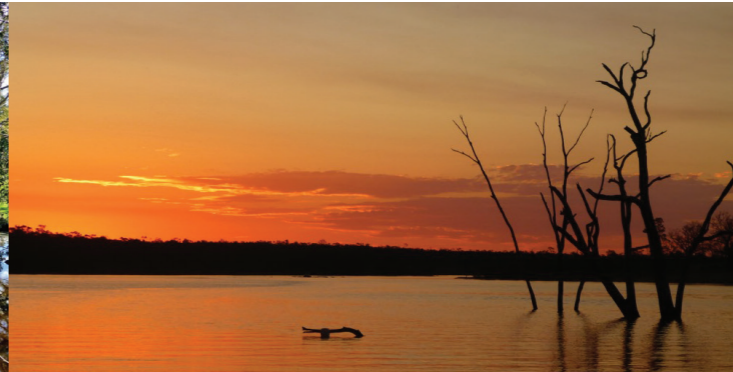

Balmoral has something for everyone – history, the arts, camping, golf and outdoor activities, family getaways, farm stays - and a warm welcome.

The Balmoral Show, held annually in March, was established in 1887

The Glenelg River provides a rich environment for both flora and fauna

The Balmoral area is home to the largest Rosemary grower in the Southern Hemisphere
